DeWolf Hopper's "El Capitan," the new comic opera by John Philip Sousa and Charles Klein, which for the past four weeks has been the centre of attention and interest in Philadelphia and theatrical circles, will be given its premier presentation in this city Wednesday night, and doubtless every seat will be occupied. The desire to see and hear this latest success is very great. The audience will doubtless be highly entertained, for it is said that "El Capitan's" libretto is brimful of bright and witty lines, the music inspiring and melodious, and the performance lively and full of go, as only Hopper and his colleagues can make it. The production is said to be a most gorgeous and lavishly beautiful one, and as backgrounds for the great cast of principals and grand chorus of fifty voices. The magnificent stage pictures, which are highly picturesque, have been furnished. The costumes, by Daxian, are said to be the most tasteful and appropriate ever seen in comic opera.

Under her mystic spell one finds himself in what seems a new world and imagines the mystic scene, the real world in which he is living. Her effort is concealed. As in good music, her art is lost in harmony. From the earliest years Miss Fuller has been surrounded by the refining influences of good society. Cultured
